in 2021 the indonesia economy has bounced back to almost at the condition before the covid 19 pandemic confidence in general has been strong among indonesians with the aim to rebuild the country better growth is expected to accelerate to escape the middle income trap before 2045 and at the same time to transform to green economy it has been argued nevertheless that to achieve these goals indonesia needs to improve its qualities of institutions and human capital this book is intended to discuss these issues as well as how they influence indonesia s development in 1991 indonesia introduced a system of administrative courts that was to contribute to establishing the rule of law in indonesia and to provide recourse for citizens against unlawful administrative behaviour this book evaluates the performance of the administrative court system it explains why the courts were established in spite of the indonesian state s authoritarian nature and why and to what extent the system is a dutch legal transplant it analyses the jurisdictionary powers of the courts and how the courts have used them it then proceeds to explain the unbalanced nature of the record presented by analysing factors inside and outside the administrative court organisation which influence its performance these include budgetary deficits lack of training opportunities career manipulation corruption lack of government support and many other non legal issues finally the author provides a number of recommendations for change many of which may also be of use to other developing countries

key messages mediation is a conflict resolution mechanism that has emerged in countries with lots of conflicts related to land and industrial tree plantations its application on the ground however has yet to show satisfactory results mediation can be seen as a part of conflict transformation as it aims at reaching a long term solution acceptable to all parties there are many approaches to mediation in indonesia depending on legal processes and the status of mediators in turn this opens the door to mediation through the courts with certified mediators the emergence of mediation and its recognition by the indonesian ministry of forestry is closely linked to the acknowledgment of the presence of conflict within the forest domain which is opposed to the violation of the law terminology that was traditionally used research of a case that stakeholders deemed a success in jambi province in sumatra shows the challenges surrounding the application of conflict mediation which can be fragile with the possibility of unsustainable outcomes if it does not fulfill its role as a means for conflict resolution the limitations inherent in mediation should not prevent stakeholders in indonesia from promoting it as an alternative approach in conflict management from building a legal framework or from developing experiences and a dynamic mediator network the publication is one of a series of documents they comprise four country reports for cambodia indonesia philippines and viet nam respectively a regional report covering these four countries and the proceedings of the regional workshop that resulted in recommendations for a regional action plan for poverty reduction among indigenous peoples ethnic minorities in addition a regional report on the subject in the pacific dmcs was prepared under a separate consultancy foreword much commentary on indonesian politics since the fall of president suharto in may 1998 has suggested that indonesia s political system has remained just as exclusionary as it was prior to his fall despite the fact that it has become much more democratic and decentralised in contrast to this view we argue that indonesia s political system has become more inclusive during this time if only a little more so the fall of suharto and the subsequent process of democratisation has removed key obstacles to organisation by poor and disadvantaged groups and their ngo allies making it easier for them to engage in collective action aimed at achieving pro poor policy change
